Paid domestic violence leave now in operation

Section 7 of the Work Life Balance and Miscellaneous Provisions Act 2023 introduced 5 days paid domestic violence leave in a 12-month period with effect from 27 November. The leave can be taken where the employee is the victim of domestic violence, including coercive control, or where they are supporting their spouse, partner or child who is the victim. The leave will be paid at the full rate of the employee.

Webinar on domestic violence leave

Members are invited to join an Ibec webinar on domestic violence leave on Monday, 11 December at 10 am. On the webinar, Nichola Harkin (Head of Employment Law Services), Pauline O'Hare (Senior Employment Law Manager) and Kara McGann (Head of Social Policy) will discuss the new entitlement to domestic violence leave. They will provide detailed guidance on who can avail of this leave, how employers should best manage the leave and what policies and procedures employers should put in place. Members are welcome to send in questions for the panellists by COB Wednesday 6 December to heather.ferguson@ibec.ie

Why 2024 is likely to be a big year for the retirement and pension landscape

Next year is expected to see legislation in three key areas of reform; the introduction of a pension auto enrolment system, measures to restrict the setting of mandatory retirement ages by employers below the State pension age of 66 and legislation to introduce a flexible State pension system where people may defer their entitlements to the State pension until 70 in return for higher State pension.

Minister Humphreys secures Cabinet approval for introduction of new Pay-Related Jobseeker's Benefit system

The proposed introduction of pay-related Jobseeker's Benefit is just one of a series of major social welfare reforms announced in recent weeks by the Minister. Other reforms include landmark changes to the State pension, an increase in Parent's benefit from 7 to 9 weeks, extension of Child Benefit to 18 years old in full time education as well as other measures.

Organisations with 50 or more employees must establish internal whistleblowing channels by 17 December

The Protected Disclosures (Amendment) Act 2022 commenced on 1 January 2023. One of the key changes introduced by the 2022 Act is the new obligation on organisations to put internal reporting channels in place for making a protected disclosure. This requirement applies to organisations with 250 employees from January 1, 2023 and those with 50 or more employees from 17 December of this year. See our guidance and sample policy.

Employment Permits Update: Changes to Stamp 4 Support Letter Process

Effective from 30 November 2023, the Department of Enterprise, Trade and Employment will cease to accept applications for Stamp 4 support letters. From that date, Stamp 4 applications and checks will be handled by the Department of Justice/Immigration Service Delivery (ISD).

20K award for machine operative forced to retire at 65 in case that demonstrates once again, high bar required to justify mandatory company retirement age

A Workplace Relations Commission Adjudication Officer made the award after upholding the worker's claim of discrimination on the grounds of age. The AO described the reasons for the Company's refusal of the machine operative's application for longer working as overly formulaic. The decision demonstrates anew, the difficulties faced by employers where they seek to enforce their mandatory retirement ages and the high bar that is required to justify its legitimate aim.

Planning a workplace social event?

Many organisations choose to celebrate the festive season in December by arranging workplace social events and gatherings. Employers must strike the balance between celebrating the season and ensuring the employment legislation and health and safety obligations are taken into account. ## Dignity and Respect in the Workplace

Bullying, harassment, and sexual harassment in the workplace have a negative effect on employee work performance and wellbeing and are also cited in a significant number of cases before the WRC. An employer has vicarious liability for the actions of their employees but is better placed to defend a claim if they took reasonable practicable steps to prevent these actions and followed robust procedures in dealing with complaints. With this in mind, ensure your policies and procedures are up to date by revisiting Ibec's framework for preventing bullying, harassment and sexual harassment in the workplace.
